

AngelEye Cameras

Information for parents

The Townsville University Hospital Neonatal Unit team is happy to offer the AngelEye camera system. AngelEye lets you view your baby while you are away from hospital and interact with your care team.

These cameras allow you to see live video of your baby, plus receive photo and message updates. You will need an internet-enabled device to use the system.

We hope that AngelEye cameras will help you feel more connected to your baby. Many parents worry when they are away from their baby, these cameras allow families to see baby when they are unable to visit. It is still important to visit your baby as much as you can to learn how to care for them.

We encourage you to call the Neonatal Unit on (07) 4433 3165 for updates on your baby's care.

Phonecalls about AngelEye cameras should ONLY be made if it is an emergency or the camera has been off for over an hour. Please ask family and friends to speak with you if they have questions about the camera system or your baby.

We value safe and uninterrupted care for your baby. Multiple phonecalls about the cameras will result in limited or removal of access so staff can focus on caring for your baby.

Frequently Asked Questions

How do I view my baby?

The camera is for you to see your baby only. Camera visibility may vary based on lighting.

The camera will be turned off for care times, procedures or when baby is out of the cot. During this time a privacy image will appear. Please remain calm and refresh your screen often. If your video remains off for over an hour, you can contact the Neonatal Unit and ask for assistance.

How does the live-feed work?

This is the ability to receive live video of your baby over the internet from any computer or phone when the camera is turned on.

Please note that the live-feed screen may lag, jump, or pixelate depending on your internet speed. If the view of your baby looks frozen, please refresh your screen, and check your internet connection speed. Slower internet connections may not allow the video to work.

If the video still won't load and you continue to see it trying to connect, try clicking the camera link again.

Can I communicate with my baby's care team?
